Our story begins on Christmas Eve in the London office of Ebenezer Scrooge — a miserly old businessman. Scrooge is visited by solicitors who ask him for a donation for the poor. He declares that the only place for the poor is prison or death and continues counting his money. Even a visit from his cheerful nephew cannot improve his disposition. Only after some persuasion, does Scrooge begrudgingly give Bob Cratchit, his loyal employee, Christmas day off to spend time with his family and ailing son, Tiny Tim. Scrooge’s response to the Christmas holiday is “Bah, Humbug!”

On Christmas Eve, Scrooge is visited by the ghost of Jacob Marley, his former business partner. Marley cautions Scrooge that without a change of heart, his actions will condemn him to wear heavy chains for all eternity. He warns that three spirits will visit Scrooge throughout the night. The Ghost of Christmas Past is the first visitor, taking Scrooge back to his schooldays and to Christmases of merriment and kindness. The Ghost of Christmas Present arrives next to show Scrooge the celebrations going on without him. The last visitor of the night is the Spirit of Christmas Yet to Come who offers a glimpse of the world after Scrooge's death: no one will care that he is dead, his maid will steal the very blankets from his deathbed, and Tiny Tim, Bob Cratchit’s youngest son, will succumb to his illness.

Will these events change Ebenezer’s view of life?

Charles John Dickens was born on February 7, 1812 in Landport, England, the second of eight children. In his early childhood, the family moved to London because they were short of money. Charles’s father was continually living beyond his means and, in 1824, was imprisoned for debt. At the age of 12, Charles was taken out of school and put to work in a boot-blacking factory earning six shillings a week to help support the family who had left London, leaving Charles on his own. Charles considered this period to be the most terrible time in his life and would later write that he wondered “how I could have been so easily cast away at such an age.” This childhood poverty and feelings of abandonment were a heavy influence on Dickens’ later views on social reform and the world he would create through his fiction.

After six months, Charles’ father was released from prison and sent Charles to Wellington House Academy. Charles enjoyed writing, but disliked school, so at the age of fifteen he left the Academy and became a free-lance reporter at Doctor's Commons Courts. For several years he alternated reporting, exploring the London streets, and reading avidly in London's libraries.

In 1836, Dickens began writing an amusing monthly newsletter called The Pickwick Papers, which soon became extremely popular. The Pickwick Papers brought him both wealth and immediate fame, which lasted throughout his whole life. Dickens went on to write 15 major novels and countless short stories and articles throughout his life before he died on July 9, 1870. He is buried in Westminster Abbey.
Ever wondered how to put on a play?
There are many different elements that go into putting a show up on its feet. Please review the following with your students:

PLAYWRIGHT The playwright writes the script.
DIRECTOR The director is in charge of orchestrating the entirety of the production. They lead the actors, designers, and production crew to put the show on its feet.
COSTUME What the actors wear during the show.
SCENERY Everything on stage (except props) used to represent the setting, or the place in which the story is occurring.
PROPS All physical items on stage with the exception of the scenery. This includes lamps, chairs, pens, paper, books, and more!
LIGHTS Stage lights illuminate the actors so that they look their best. The colors used, focus of the light, and amount of lighting can really set the mood and environment of a scene.
SOUND Everything that you hear during a performance that does not come from the actors.

AUDIENCE The lucky people that get to watch the show.
New to being an audience member? Follow these rules and you will be a natural!

AUDIENCE RULES
♦ Unlike a movie, the actors are performing in front of you. They can see everything that you do. Talking, sleeping, poking your neighbor, or making noise during the performance distracts the actors and others around you.
♦ Don’t bring electronics to the performance. The use of cell phones, cameras, computers, tablets, and video game devices are not allowed.
♦ Use your better judgment on when to laugh, clap, and/or cry during the performance. But don’t forget to clap at the end of the show!
♦ Stay in your seat during the performance.
♦ Make sure you go to the bathroom before the show starts.

VICTORIAN ENGLAND
Life for Victorian Children in Victorian times (1830 to 1900) was nothing like childhood in today’s world. For the wealthy there was an overwhelming sense of boredom and the constant prodding to be proper and polite with very little parent to child communication. For the poor Victorian Children life was much different. The poor children had to work public jobs for their families to survive. Toys were nothing more than homemade dolls or wooden blocks. On the other hand their family life was tighter knit and more loving.

DIRECTIONS

Give students a chance to act out a scene from Charles Dickens’s A Christmas Carol
Before jumping into the performance, think about all of the elements that go into a play. Are there any props that we can use to help improve the scene? Where are the characters when this scene is taking place? What might the scenery look like?

SAMPLE SCENE

FRED: He said Christmas was a humbug, as I live! He believed it too!
FRED’S WIFE: More shame on him, Fred!
SCROOGE: Is that—?
GHOST OF CHRISTMAS PRESENT: Fred’s wife… and your niece.
SCROOGE: My niece! Oh she is very pretty: exceedingly pretty...the sunniest pair of eyes I’ve ever seen...oh she is perfectly satisfactory.
FRED: He’s a comical old fellow and I have nothing to say against him.
FRED’S WIFE: I’m sure he is very rich, Fred. At least, you always tell me so.
FRED: What of that, my dear. His wealth is of no use to him. He doesn’t do any good with it. He doesn’t make himself comfortable with it. He hasn’t the satisfaction in thinking that he is ever going to benefit us with it.
FRED’S WIFE: I have no patience with him.
SISTER 1: Nor I.
SISTER 2: Nor I.
FRED: Oh, I have! I am sorry for him; I couldn’t be angry with him if I tried. Who suffers by his ill whims? Himself, always. Here, he takes it into his head to dislike us, and he won’t come and dine with us. What’s the consequence? He doesn’t lose much of a dinner.
FRED’S WIFE: Indeed, I think he loses a very good dinner!
SISTER 1: So do I.
SISTER 2: And I.
FRED: I mean to give him the same chance every year, whether he likes it or not, for I pity him. He may rail at Christmas till he dies, but he can’t help thinking better of it — I defy him — if he finds me going there, in good temper, year after year, and saying Uncle Scrooge, how are you? If it only puts him in the vein to leave his poor clerk fifty pounds, that’s something, and I think I shook him yesterday!
